Greetings,

This past spring started out as an exciting one as we moved into new classroom space, that allowed for larger classroom sizes, the opportunity to run classes simultaneously, and everyone’s favorite, easier parking! Mid-semester we were hit with the unimaginable, the out of control pandemic that shut down the world. The university did like so many others and mandated that all face to face classes and meetings cease and teleworking to commence immediately. This meant the course lineup that our curriculum committee had worked so diligently to establish was now on hold. Working quickly with several of our instructors, we were able to transition several classes online into the summer months, allowing us to offer virtual courses for the first time ever.

In keeping our members safety and health a top priority, we have made the decision to move to a fully virtual format for the semester. I am excited to say that this decision also brought a new all-inclusive membership for optimal engagement throughout the semester. While we will certainly miss seeing everyone in person this semester, I hope you will take advantage of this unique opportunity to learn from the comfort of your home. I look forward to welcoming everyone back to face to face courses again when it is safe to do so. Until then, I look forward to seeing everyone virtually!

Stay healthy and well.

Book Talk: "Being Mortal"

Instructor: V. Dougherty

This two part series begins with a conversation on "Being Mortal: Medicine and What Matters in the End" by Atul Gawande, a book that has the potential to change medicine – and lives. The book explores the hopes of patients and their families facing terminal illness and their relationships with the physicians who treat them. In his bestselling books, Gawande, a practicing surgeon, has fearlessly revealed the struggles of his profession. He examines its ultimate limitations and failures – in his own practices as well as others’ – as life draws to a close. And he discovers how we can do better. By exploring the inescapable realities of aging and death, Gawande shows that what medicine can do often runs counter to what it should. Through eye-opening research and gripping stories of his own patients and family, Gawande reveals the suffering this dynamic has produced. "Being Mortal" shows that the ultimate goal is not a good death but a good life – all the way to the very end.

The following educational session shows us some steps we can take to help us do a better job of dealing with our own mortality. This session details the resources available in North Carolina that can assist in making your health care choices known to your family, your medical team, and others that may be involved in your care. You will also have the opportunity to complete your own advance care planning documents. Facilitators, witnesses and notaries will be available to discuss questions you may have and assist you in finalizing your documents. Your completed documents can then be scanned to your Vidant electronic health record for future reference. Photo ID is required for completion of documents.

Getting Your (Legal) Ducks in a Row

Instructor: C. Alexander

This two-hour summary course will review the essential legal documents and pragmatic planning choices that every adult should consider to promote their wishes, protect their legacy, minimize family discord and safeguard loved ones in the event of incapacity. The interactive course will focus on practical, cost-saving and time-saving measures to ensure that an individual's needs and wishes are followed if the individual becomes unable to make personal or financial decisions due to incapacity.

Investing with Confidence in Turbulent Times

Instructor: M. Weissman

Given the environment, it’s not unusual for investors to be feeling somewhat emotional during the COVID-19 crisis. Join us for a discussion on investing for the long term, we’ll review how the current circumstances may impact investor emotions and behavior, and how to help overcome potentially detrimental, emotionally-driven investment decisions with the help of a strategy.

Day       Date       Time
Thursday  9/24       2:00pm–4:00pm

Movie & Discussion: The Leisure Seeker

Instructor: T. Jovel

We’ll be watching the movie, The Leisure Seeker, followed by a discussion of the characters, story and how it all relates to caregiving. This movie follows a runaway couple in their eighties as they go on an unforgettable journey in an old RV they call “The Leisure Seeker”. Ella suffers from cancer and has chosen to stop treatment. John has Alzheimer’s. Yearning for one last adventure, the self-proclaimed “down-on-their-luck geezers” kidnap themselves from the adult children and doctors who seem to run their lives to steal away on a forbidden vacation of rediscovery. With Ella as his vigilant copilot, John steers their ’78 Leisure Seeker RV along the forgotten roads of Route 66 toward Disneyland in search of a past they’re having a damned hard time remembering. Darkly observant, told with humor, affection, and a touch of irony, The Leisure Seeker is an odyssey through the ghost towns, deserted trailer parks, forgotten tourist attractions, giant roadside icons, and crumbling back roads of America. Ultimately it is the story of Ella and John: the people they encounter, the problems they overcome, the experiences they have lived, the love they share, and their courage to take back the end of their own lives.

Reverse Home Mortgages

Instructor: G. Wenstrom

Today's retiree’s may find themselves having to consider other options in addition to Social Security, retirement plans, and personal savings to help meet financial needs. HECMs (Home Equity Conversion Mortgage, also called reverse mortgages) can, in the right circumstances and with the right borrower, offer both shorter-term (immediate need) and longer-term benefits and help close in the gaps. HECMs accomplish this by turning part of the equity of the homes into cash that can be used today, or a line of credit that will be there when needed. In addition, a HECM can be used as financing for the purchase of a home. A HECM can also eliminate an existing monthly mortgage payment, if there is one, and supplement other sources of retirement funds. Retirement shouldn’t be about worrying. It should be about enjoying life to the fullest. A reverse mortgage might be the planning tool that can put you on a path towards a more flexible and satisfying retirement.

A Discussion about Native Americans

Instructor: A. Hunt

This program promotes a great awareness of Native American culture. It will cover the State and Federal recognized tribes of North Carolina as well as highlighting federally recognized tribes and demographics. We will dive deep into the Native world view and core values. Some additional topics that will be covered include: tribal sovereignty; structure of tribal government; food ways; health and healing; spirituality; ceremonies; oppression; and stigma, myths, and more. Information will be provided about state and location events that participate can attend and support.

Climate Change and Mass Extinction

Instructor: J. Robertson

This course will explore five mass major life extinctions that have occurred on earth over the course of the last 450 million years of its 4.5-billion-year geologic history, plus the sixth extinction that is currently underway due to global warming and other human-caused impacts. We will examine the fascinating circumstances that led to their respective apparent causes, and how those circumstances might relate to current climate change impacts on the future of life on earth. Current alarming global climate change trends and causes will also be explored in some detail.

Many people are at least vaguely aware of the most recent of the past mass extinctions that brought an end to the dinosaurs (as well as many other species) at the end of the Cretaceous Period 66 million years ago -- a catastrophe caused by the impact of a massive asteroid near the Yucatan Peninsula. However, the other four past extinctions, some of which were much more extensive, are less well known. Most of them were related to rapid and very large increases in atmospheric CO2, accompanied with rapid global warming.

Exploration of the five past exchanges will be based primarily on the 2017 book, The Ends of the World, by Peter Brannen. The sixth (current) mass extinction discussion will be based partially on the 2015 Pulitzer Plize book, The Sixth Extinction, by Elizabeth Kolbeert. The course will be presented at an educated layperson's level (no geology or other science degree required).

Reflections on the Universe

Instructor: B. Glatthorn

The goal of the course is to ponder the question asked by William Blake (1757-1827): “What do you see when you look out over the landscape? Do you simply see the sun rising or do you see the flaming forth of the deep mystery of the universe?” This course aims to stimulate an aesthetic appreciation and a sense of the sacredness of the universe expanding our sense of connectedness with the Earth. The course will combine short presentations, discussion, time for reflection and writing. One two-hour session will be given to each of the topics that constitute the operating principles of the universe: Emergence, Community and Diversity.

Travels with David

Instructor: D. Parke

Join David as he shares his travels through Australia and New Zealand. The session will consist of pictures, discussion of travel arrangements, what needs to be done prior to beginning a trip, what needs to be done at the end of the trip, and suggestions on how to really enjoy a trip outside the continental United States. Further discussion will include such topics as: how much clothing to take, how much cash to take, how mobile do you need to be, concerns with drinking water and local food, and addressing other questions the class might have.

Vermiculture

Instructor: G. Lee-Tyson

Vermiculture, or worm farming, has many benefits. It is very inexpensive, uses recycled ingredients and helps you grow healthy plants and vegetables. Worm castings, or waste, is a nutrient-rich, natural fertilizer and soil conditioner. Worms can eat and break down many times their weight in organic materials, like apple and banana peels, kitchen waste, and egg shells. Worm bins take up little space and can be kept in or outdoors year round. When properly maintained, they do not smell. In this course, you will learn how to create your own worm farm.

Helps the Lifelong Learning Program recruit new and talented instructors. This committee helps develop and evaluate new and on-going courses and supports our instructors.

Events Committee
Develops a variety of events to encourage our members to get to know one another and build friendships. The committee organizes social functions by planning, hosting and participating in the events.

Course Host
Serves as a course liaison throughout the semester. The host gets the course started by introducing the instructor and making announcements. They assist the instructor by taking attendance, handing out materials, and setting up A/V or other equipment, as needed. Training is provided.

Teach or Lead a Course
Would you like to share a skill or special interest with our Lifelong Learning Program members and other adults? Teaching or leading a course is an exciting opportunity and a valuable contribution to our program. If you know someone who would make a good instructor for our program, please contact us. To print the course proposal form visit llp.ecu.edu.

To find out how you can become more involved, please call 252-328-9198 or email us at llp@ecu.edu.

Webex Virtual Platform

All courses will be provided via the Webex Virtual Platform.

Course Invitation
A week before the class start date, registered participants will receive a calendar invite from Webex. If accepted, it will populate the course event on your email calendar.

Joining the Meeting
You will be able to join the class via phone, smartphone, tablet, laptop, or desktop computer. Your invitation will contain a green "Join" button, as well as instructions for joining by phone.

Using the Features
If you join using a computer or tablet, there will be several icons to take notice of: the microphone, the video, the share screen, the participant list, the chat box, and the icon with the "X" that you click when you are ready to leave the course meeting. When the icon is red, that particular feature is activated. To disable a feature, click the respective icon. Please make sure to disable your camera feature prior to entering the meeting room by clicking the icon that resembles a video camera.

Other Helpful Features and Tips
The Picture or initials of the individual speaking will show on the main screen with the chat feature on the right-hand side. You will be able to ask questions via the chat box. Click on the icon that has a hand in the middle of it next to your name in the chat box to indicate you would like to ask a question. A red microphone icon with a slash through it next to a participant's name in the chat box indicates that person's microphone is off.

Additional Visual Instructions can be found HERE. You can also view a short tutorial on how to join a webex meeting and use its basic functions below.
